MONDAY EVENING, DECEMBER 17

The Radicals at the North say and do every thing they can to keep up sectional strife, and to excite the feelings of the Sou hern people, and then blame our people, for the state of pu'lic opinion, which they themselves purposely and with malice prepense create. They seek to annoy, injure, irritate, and oppress, and then cry out against those who show a natural resentment against such wrongs upon defenceless and unrepresented communities! This is unjust and ungenerous. It they so act as to induce want of respect and confi lence, can they reasonably expect kind feelings in return?-Ought there not, now that war is over, he some reciprocity, to bring about a restoration of harmony?

A writer in the Washington Chronicle who is resisting the payment of the "claims" of the "loval citizens," in the "insurrectionary States," is worked up to uncommon wrath! against the claimants, and talks of the "unblushing effrontery of a predatory herde," &c. Fye! This is very unseemly language to be applied to "loyal" citizens! Certainly, this is not the feast to which they were invitedespecially as some have been paid already!

The U. S. frigate NEW IRONSIDES, built in Philadelphia in 1862, at a cost of $750,000, was desiroyed by fire yesterday, at League Island, on the Delaware river, below Philadelphia. The origin of the fire is not yet a cer tained. An investigation will immediately be -made. A furious northeast storm prevailed whilst the vessel was burning.

GAS METERS IN WINTER. - As the winter is approaching, it may be well to know the best way to prevent the water in our gas meters from freezing, and thus avoid the consequent anneyance of want of light. One or two pints of glycerine, well mixed with the water, are sufficient for a middle-sized meter, but the battle-field to the cometery still continues. quantity must be increased in proportion to the degree of cold to which the meter is expec- | denly at the Southern Hotel, in New York on ted to be exposed. It possesses another advantage, namely, it retards the evaporation of the water; which continually takes place, and also results in the sudden extinguishing of the ligh's when the quantity of water becomes too sma'l. A sufficient amount of glycerine, in the meter will prevent this evaporation entirely. and obviate an accident not rarely seen in places where a great many gas burners are thereby causing his death, should be tried be turned on-for i stance, in church during service. or in the house where there is a party. The notices recently published concerning the discontinuance of Southern postoffices are liable to be misunderstood. No wholesale discontinuance of offices now in operation is anticipated, but the action of the Postoffice Department refers only to the many offices in the South which were suspended at the commencement of the war in 1861, and which have not since been formally reopened.

It was only necessary to look at their bright and merry faces to convince any one that they were a most the happiest portion of our population, if not the most free. How the matter stands with them now we leave for others to say. Many who owned large numbers of negroes formerly, and have, from the force of circumstances, been driven to resort either to white labor or negro labor only sufficient for their wants, express the opinion that as a matter of economy it is best as it is.
